

The range

www.lecreusetshop.co.za

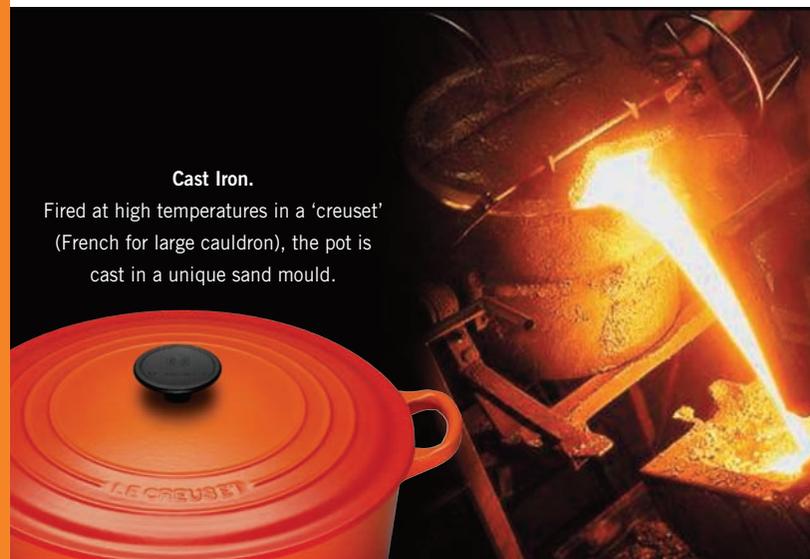

France, 1925. The year the first Le Creuset Casserole was forged from the raw materials of coke, iron and sand at the foundry in Fresnoy-le-Grand.

The same foundry is still handcrafting our Cast Iron for you in much the same way today.

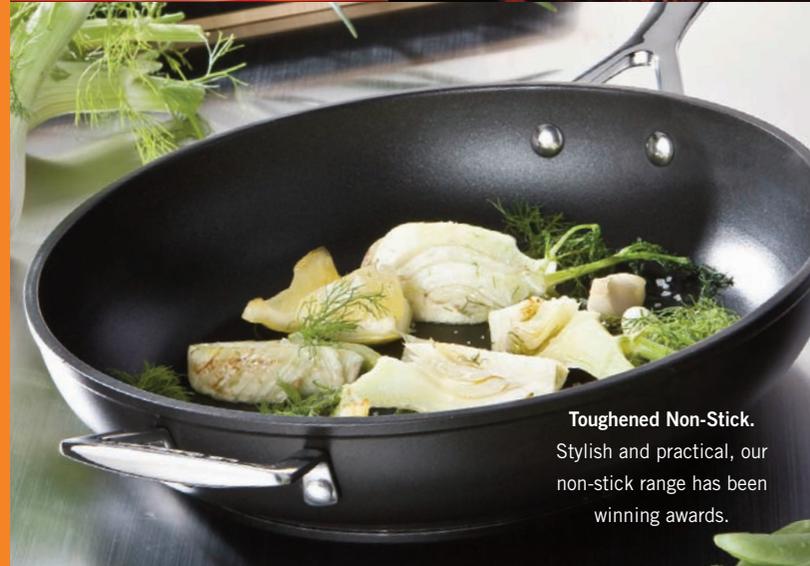

Craftsmen still apply the same skills and rigorous standards to produce each individual item.

The Le Creuset Flame Orange Casserole still remains an icon of quality, craftsmanship and stylish design, not only meeting the exacting standards of professional chefs worldwide, but also the exacting standards of anyone who loves to prepare food in their kitchen today.

Our customers are passionate about good food and so too are Le Creuset. Listening to you, our customers, has led us to design and develop new products to enhance everyday cooking experiences, all to the highest quality standards. Using the raw materials not only of cast iron, but of stoneware, porcelain, and steel, Le Creuset have fashioned a complete range which are all designed to look, work and last like a dream.

Cast Iron.
Fired at high temperatures in a 'creuset' (French for large cauldron), the pot is cast in a unique sand mould.

Toughened Non-Stick.
Stylish and practical, our non-stick range has been winning awards.

Recipes.
For passionate cooks, producing great food is a blend of the right ingredients, well designed products and inspiring recipes. New recipes have been developed for this range guide and are shown by the side of the shot. See our online recipe collection for all the details.
